Effective leadership equates to solving key problems and promoting sustainable change in one's community. The minor in Community and Civic Leadership provides leaders the fundamental background confidence to meet the needs found in the local and regional communities and civic organizations. The coursework of the Community and Civic Leadership minor exposes students to the planning, managing, evaluation of services, motivating teams of volunteers, and situational leadership while building effective intergovernmental and intra-organizational relationships. Opportunities exist for experiential applications in local non-profit and student organizations.  The Community and Civic Leadership and Effective Teamwork and Communication minors were designed to build on related concepts and share selected coursework. Students are encouraged to consider a dual minor to further strengthen their future marketability as team members and leaders.
