Part II 2. b. List all associated course changes

The following new course proposals and revisions in existing courses are to be included in the revised program:

1. The new program reflects the changes in Liberal Studies requirements as mandated for implementation beginning the 2012-2013 academic year. Additional credits were added to "Free Electives" to achieve the required 120 credits required for graduation.
2. The new program adds "ARHI 424 Art and Architecture of India and Southeast Asia" and "ARHI 321 History of World Ceramics" to the list of Controlled Electives. These two courses were approved by previously approved by UWUCC (2/19/08) and University Senate (3/25/08).
3. The wording for the Foreign Language Requirement is changed to make our intended meaning clearer and to bring the wording into conformity with the language requirements of other programs in the University. Rather than 12 credits (described as "4 semesters of one language"), the new requirement counts 0-6 credits of intermediate language study (or equivalent competency). An equivalent number of credits under "Free Electives" is added to compensate for reduced number of credits listed under "Major Requirements" in the language requirement. The level of foreign language competency required stays the same.
4. It should be noted here that the Department understands that, in the near future, this program will be undergoing further review and discussion as it moves to attain the required 42-hour major limit by 2015.

Rationale for Change

1. Liberal Studies requirements are changed from the previous 50 to 43-44, with a corresponding increase in Free Electives.
2. While ARHI 321 and ARHI 424 have been approved as satisfying requirements for the degree, they have not been added to the official list of Controlled Electives as it appears in the Undergraduate Catalogue. This change will correct this omission.
3. The ambiguity of the wording of the language requirement in the Old Curriculum has led to inconsistent interpretation of the requirements for graduation. This rewording will clarify our objectives and how they will be met by the student.

Part III. Implementation. Provide answers to the following questions:

1. How will the proposed revision affect students already in the existing program?
Students entering the University beginning Fall, 2012, will follow the new curriculum, with the new Liberal Studies requirements.
2. Are faculty resources adequate? Are other resources adequate? Do you expect an increase or decrease in the number of students as a result of these revisions?
Current faculty resources are adequate. All other resources are adequate. The changes should have no effect on the number of students in the program

Part IV. Periodic Assessment

Departments are responsible for an ongoing review of curriculum. Include information about the department's plan for program evaluation:

1. As part of NASAD accreditation requirements, the programs and curricula of all divisions of the Art Department will be reviewed by a representative of the accrediting body every five years. Current NASAD requirements are outlined in the NASAD Handbook. The various programs offered by the Department are currently in compliance, and the changes described here will not change that status.

2. In addition, the Art History Faculty will review the course offerings annually to assess the course offerings and make changes.

3. Changes will be made based on a number of criteria, including the following:

- a. Student enrollment in current offerings
- b. Changing research interest of faculty
- c. Changes implemented by other departments in related fields

Part V. Course Proposals

No new courses are proposed.

Part VI. Letters of Support or Acknowledgement

None required.
