| Liberal Studies courses must include  the perspectives and contributions  of ethnic and racial minorities and of women whenever appropriate to  the subject matter. Please explain  how this course will meet this  criterion. | Course objective 5 states, " Demonstrate critical thinking (through reading, discussion, and/or writing) by interpreting, responding, critiquing, and acknowledging diverse perspectives in relation to their own." The handbook for teaching the course will explain that instructors should require readings from "diverse perspectives" including those from ethnic and racial minorities, as well as multiple genders, as samples of genres that students will be writing as well as texts for students to respond to in their writing. |
| :---: | :---: |
| Liberal Studies courses require the  reading and use by students of at  least one nontextbook work of  fiction or nonfiction or a collection  of related articles. Please describe  how your course will meet this  criterion. | Course objective 3 states, " Analyze their own writing and the writing of others for rhetorical effectiveness and rhetorical choices (i. e., read like a writer), and integrate the writing of others into their own writing." Our teaching handbook for the course will explain that instructors will require a variety of readings for each unit, usually a collection of non-fiction in the genre that students are writing (e.g., for the informative unit, an instructor would provide examples of news articles, infographics, web text, brochures, and other typically informative types of writing for students to write about and use as models). |
