COLLEGE of ARTS, HUMANITIES, MEDIA & PUBLIC AFFAIRS

A Message from our Dean

It is my pleasure to welcome you to the 2024-2025 season of the Lively Arts.

As you will see in the brochure, this season's events are both exciting and broad in their scope, which matches the broad offerings in our new College of Arts, Humanities, Media, and Public Affairs. You will see international performers, guest artists, exciting performances and exhibitions, festivals, plays, musicals, opera, and celebrations of our world. We hope that you will attend many of these events to experience the imagination and artistry of those who we are bringing to IUP, as well as the terrific work of our students and faculty.

A highlight of this season will be the return to Indiana of the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, conducted by its Music Director, Manfred Honeck. This special evening, which is scheduled for Monday, February 17, 2025, is presented with the generous sponsorship of our friends at S&T Bank and is not to be missed.

Please join us for this exciting series of events. You won't want to miss it!

Curt Scheib, Dean

at the HUB

Stand Up Comedy

Featuring Cam Bertrand & Jessi Campbell

Wednesday, January 29, 8:00 PM

Ohio Room, HUB (Hadley Union Building)

Tickets: $20/$15/$10

A season 16 alum of America's Got Talent and a contributing writer on seasons 11 and 12 of MTV's "Wild N'Out," Cam Bertrand is a 29-year-old stand-up comedian from Tampa, FL. He attended Florida A&M University and is considered one of the fastest rising comedy stars in the country. He has also worked with some of the biggest names in comedy today including Joe Rogan, Bert Kreischer, Pete Davidson, Michael Che, and Mike Epps.

Jessi Campbell's high energy performances have taken her all over the country. She has performed at over 1,000 colleges nationwide. Jessi has also performed at Gilda's LaughFest, The Boston Comedy Festival, and The Great American Comedy Festival. She was featured on NBC's Last Comic Standing and her Dry Bar Comedy special "The Sharpest Knife on the Porch" can be seen on Amazon Prime, Facebook, and YouTube.

OVATIONS SERIES

Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra with Special Guest Artist María Dueñas, Violin
Manfred Honeck, Conductor
Presenting Sponsor - S&T Bank
Monday, February 17, 7:30 PM
Fisher Auditorium
Tickets $20/$15/$10

Dvořák traveled to America in the 1890s, and this wild new country thrilled him. He admired the beauty of African American spirituals and was fascinated by Native American traditions. When describing his “New World” symphony, he said, “I tried to write only in the spirit of those national American melodies,” but his Ninth is clearly an expression of both the Old World and the new. Alongside Dvořák’s familiar symphony, violin phenom María Dueñas performs Saint-Saëns, and the program opens with a set of Four Black American Dances by Carlos Simon that also serve to highlight Dvořák’s African American inspirations.

The Peking Acrobats®
Friday, March 28, 7:30 PM
Fisher Auditorium
Tickets: $20/$15/$10

For the last thirty-two years, The Peking Acrobats® have redefined audience perceptions of Chinese acrobatics. They perform daring maneuvers atop a precarious pagoda of chairs and display their technical prowess at such arts as trick-cycling, precision tumbling, juggling, somersaulting, and gymnastics. They push the limits of human ability, defying gravity with amazing displays of contortion, flexibility, and control. Bring the whole family to enjoy this fun event!

COLLEGE of ARTS, HUMANITIES, MEDIA & PUBLIC AFFAIRS SERIES

Mid-Autumn Moon Festival Celebration

September 15, 4-6:00 PM
Cogswell Hall, Room 120
Free Event

Enjoy music, poems, stories, and more in celebration of the traditional mid-Autumn Festival, also known as the Moon Festival. This holiday celebrates the eighth full moon each year, which is August 15th on the lunar calendar (September 17 in 2024). This Sunday event kicks off a series of celebration activities. Performers from Pittsburgh will perform moon-related pieces on Chinese instruments: Guqin and Pipa. IUP community members will play piano, sing, dance, read moon related poems, and tell moon related stories. Participants will also be able to taste Chinese moon cakes and other goodies.

This event is sponsored by IUP Lively Arts and Han-Qiao IUP Chinese Program Enhancement Funds.

Gavas Beat: A Fusion of Music for All Cultures

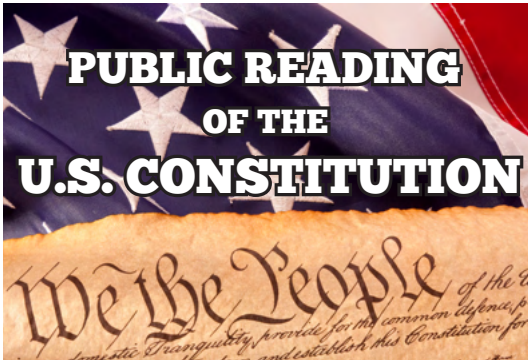

September 28, 6:30 PM (Doors open 6 PM)
Hadley Union Building (HUB), Ohio Room
Free Event

Gavas Beat is a fusion of Latin rhythms and cultures, composed by young musicians with various musical backgrounds from different countries in Latin America including Chile, Colombia, Costa Rica, Dominican Republic, Mexico, and Venezuela. Gavás' style blends Latin pop, salsa, merengue, cumbia, vallenato, and reggae, introducing its unique style to classic songs and current hits trending in radio stations across the world.

The band originated as a gathering of friends in the streets of Pittsburgh in 2010 and has progressively grown into a full-size crossover orchestra. Today, the essence is preserved and Gavás continues to maintain their irreverent style and young fusion of sabor and tumbao.

This event is organized by FOLDIS and sponsored by the Office of the Vice President of Student Affairs, IUP Social Equity and Title IX Office, IUP Lively Arts, and The Center for Multicultural Student Leadership and Engagement MSCLE.

COLLEGE of ARTS, HUMANITIES, MEDIA & PUBLIC AFFAIRS SERIES

Public Reading of the U.S. Constitution

September 17, Noon-1:20 PM
The Oak Grove, in Front of Stapleton
Library
Free Event

Come to the Oak Grove (in front of Stapleton Library) anytime between noon until 1:20 PM for a public reading of the Constitution.

This is the sixteenth year that IUP has hosted a public reading of the Constitution. As at past public readings, the first 100 participants will receive a special "We the People at IUP" T-shirt, as well as a pocket-sized copy of the Constitution and a star-shaped cookie.

In the case of inclement weather, the public reading will take place in the lobby of Jane E. Leonard Hall.

Chat with the Founding Fathers

September 17, 5:30-7:00 PM
Jane E. Leonard Hall, Room 126
Free Event

Three of the delegates to the Constitutional Convention are coming to talk about the process of writing the U.S. Constitution in 1787. If you've ever wondered just what the Founders were thinking when they authored the Constitution, this is your chance to ask questions of James Madison, Ben Franklin, and Charles Pinckney.

More Information
on the Movie

Join us for a special screening of the award-winning ethnographic film A Thousand Pines followed by a Q & A with acclaimed filmmaker and anthropologist Noam Osband.

About A Thousand Pines: The United States is the world's largest producer of wood and paper products, and each year the industry relies almost entirely on foreign guest workers who plant over one billion trees to replenish harvested forests. This intimate documentary explores the hidden world of guest workers regrowing America's forests and the challenges the workers and their families face.

Pizza and attendance vouchers will be provided. All are welcome!

Noam Osband is a filmmaker, radio producer, and anthropologist. His first feature was the nationally-broadcast film Adelante, and his documentary, The Radical Jew, won Best Short Doc at the Charlotte and Tallgrass Film Festivals. He is also a radio and print journalist, whose bylines include The Atlantic, BBC4, Criminal, and Freakonomics Radio.

Anthropology in Action is a speaker series highlighting the diversity of work being done by anthropologists today, providing an opportunity for students to meet and learn from practicing professionals. Applied anthropologists use the people-centered methods of anthropology to better understand all kinds of communities, inform policy, and act on real world issues.

This event is sponsored by the Department of Anthropology, Geospatial and Earth Sciences, the Department of Communications Media, the Social Equity and Title IX Office, the Sustainability Studies Program, the Kopchick College of Natural Sciences and Mathematics, and IUP Lively Arts.

ArtsPath is one of 14 organizations in the state that partner with the Pennsylvania Council on the Arts in providing arts-in-education services to schools, senior centers, and other groups where the arts are used in an educational setting. The ArtsPath service region includes Armstrong, Butler, Clarion, Indiana, and Jefferson counties. Through primarily long-term artist residencies, public and private school students, IUP students, and community members work directly with a variety of professional performing and visual artists.

As the arts-in-education program of the Lively Arts, the ArtsPath mission centers on promoting high-quality arts experiences, establishing the use of art in education across all curricula as a priority, offering regional services, generating community-wide and regional support, and promoting the arts classroom teacher as integral to a student's complete education.

Through the Lively Arts Ovations series, regional students enjoy a performance or hands-on activities such as a workshop, master class, or lecture-demonstration, with a professional touring artist.

Now in its 12th year, the IUP Community Music School provides the region with private lessons, group music instruction, and ensemble opportunities on the IUP campus at a variety of price points.

The school supports and enhances public and private school music education and performance both locally and regionally and includes three performance ensembles. All activities take place in Cogswell Hall, with ensembles meeting during the Fall and Spring semesters. The band also meets a few times during the summer for an outdoor summer band concert. Lessons take place year-round, including between semesters, as instructors are available.
