“Helping students prepare, advance, and excel.”

National Association for Developmental Education

Indiana University of Pennsylvania
Many times, students experience difficulties adjusting to college. People might have already told you that college is not like high school, but what is college like? Are you nervous about where to go and what to do? Do you wonder what classes will be like? Do you know how to be successful in college?

Studies show that when students are given an early, formal introduction to college, they are more likely to experience satisfaction and to make progress toward a degree. Colleges and universities often offer seminars to students during the freshman year, when students especially need support, knowledge, and skills.

IUP is offering a program to a limited number of first-year students through its Department of Developmental Studies. The program is called CUSP: THE EARLY ENTRANCE EXPERIENCE and is designed to help you make a solid transition to college and to enhance your chances for academic success.

CUSP will include the following:

1. A one-week early arrival to campus with early check-in for fall housing assignments (Saturday, August 17)

2. Enrollment in two elective credits, DVST 150: Introduction to Higher Education, and MATH 281: Strategies for Success in Collegiate Mathematics. Also included are required workshops, tours, other informational activities, and social events.

Seats are Limited. Enrollment is on a First-Come, First-Served Basis.

Students in this program receive the following benefits:

- The tools for a successful college outcome
- An understanding of the role and purpose of higher education
- Two credits before the fall semester even begins
- A strong academic start with an opportunity to earn a high beginning grade-point average
- Early arrival on campus
- The opportunity to meet other students
- An introduction to IUP’s many resources
- Background on the Liberal Studies curriculum and its course requirements
- The skills to be a successful student, including: how to set goals, make informed decisions, manage your time, and identify your strengths and weaknesses
- The opportunity to make connections with IUP faculty members and other IUP personnel
